Module Aims

This module has a strengths-based perspective and aims to ensure that students develop an understanding of participation and its role in their professional training, in the development of policy and legislation, and the planning and delivery of services. It aims to ensure that students understand the variety of roles of those involved in social work processes, including individuals, their carers, other professionals and communities. As such, this module has social work values at its core, and students will have the opportunity to develop their understanding of the nature of social work values, both traditional and radical, and to evaluate the relationship between these and their developing practice.

Students will have the opportunity to develop and demonstrate skills in partnership working, including communication skills, assessment and research skills, for example in finding out the evidence about what people value, both as individuals and within communities, and what works.

By listening to a variety of narratives of experience, students will develop their ability to practise non-judgement and understand diversity as strength.

This module will be available as a stand-alone module for people who use services and their carers who are part of the Programme's Outside In focus group.

Derogations

Students will have two attempts only at each assessment.

All assessments must be passed at 40% or above

This module cannot be trailed to the next level.

Assessment:

Assignment 1: Project – for the first section of the project, students will work alongside an individual or carer who has used services to listen to and record an aspect of their narrative of expertise by experience. Within the second section, students will provide a reflective account of what they have learnt from listening to and re-telling this narrative, and make links to relevant theoretical knowledge.

Assignment 2: Poster Presentation – articulating understanding of the purpose of participation and its relationship to the Code of Professional Practice demonstrating knowledge, skills and values by doing this in a way that is accessible to Individuals who use services.

Assessment number	Learning Outcomes to be met	Type of assessment	Weighting (%)	Duration (if exam)	Word count
1	1, 2	Project	50%		1,500
2	3, 4, 5	Poster Presentation	50		1,500 equivalent

Learning and Teaching Strategies:

The module will consist of a mixture of lectures, group discussions, practical workshops and a guided project resulting in the presentation for assessment two. A major contribution will be the input of the Outside In focus group and other organisations of people who use services and their carers both as contributors to teaching and as students of the module.
