Learning and Teaching Strategies:

Students access the course through a virtual learning environment (Moodle). Each module follows the same structure to enable consistency and involves students in a process of learning new content, discussing content to deepen understanding and reviewing knowledge before moving to the next session. The students are introduced to content through a variety of means designed to enhance access for students with additional learning needs. This could include reading (with audio where possible), watching videos (with transcripts where possible), screencasts, listening to podcasts, and accessing suitable web resources. Students are directed towards and supported to access journal articles and e-books through Athens.

The basis for working with online materials will be through self-directed study, regular online communication with tutors/peers and a work-based portfolio. Students are encouraged to interact with each other and tutors through a range of communication tools. Each tutor would be expected to engage students using chat forums, e-mail, Moodle messaging, wiki pages, interactive quizzes and web conferencing. Students are enabled to communicate with each other and to form a community of practice using a variety of the above tools.

This module may also be delivered using blended learning, whereby aspects of the course may be taught in the classroom (i.e. Saturday Study Day) in combination with online learning.

Syllabus outline:

The syllabus outline has been presented as a set of questions for the lecturer and students to answer together using the most up-to-date materials available. This recognises that knowledge, theory, concepts and practice will change over the life span of this course as the content used to answer the questions below should be revised each year as appropriate.

This module will support students to consider the questions:

- What are the concepts of Special Educational Needs and Disability?
- How does current legislation impact practice?
- How inclusive is practice to support children with SEND?
- What are the impacts and implications of SEND on education and welfare settings?
- What strategies are used in practice to support children with SEND?
- What interventions are in place to support children with SEND?
- How and why do practitioners work in partnership to support children with SEND?
- How can practitioners reflect on their role when supporting children with SEND?
