Relevant QAA subject benchmark statement/s
The programme meets the requirements of the Credit and Qualifications Framework for Wales (CQFW, 2003; 2015). The programme differentiates between the volume of learning achievements (credits) and the demands made by that learning on the learner (levels). The programme has been mapped against the QAA UK Quality Code Framework for Higher Education Qualifications of UK Degree-Awarding Bodies (2014). This is evidenced in the programme and module descriptors. The QAA Subject Benchmark Statement for Criminology (2019) has also informed development of the degree.

5 Aims of the programme

The broader aims of the programmes are:

BA (Hons) Criminology and Criminal Justice

The broader aims of the programmes are

- To develop a critical appreciation of the socio-political and contested nature of 'crime'; how a range of behaviours become criminalised and how 'justice' may be defined.
- To develop a critical appreciation of the practices and principles underpinning approaches to prevent, investigate and respond to a wide range of contemporary crimes.
- To develop a critical appreciation of the impact of social diversity and inequality in a comprehensive range of criminal justice contexts and process.
- To enable students to critically assess and make a contribution to the research base informing criminology and criminal justice knowledge and practice.

- To develop students' appreciation of the standards and professional discipline required to pursue a career in the criminal justice arena.

MA Criminology and Criminal Justice

- To provide an advanced level programme for students wanting to critically analyse criminological theory and explore contemporary criminal justice issues.
- To engage students in critically assessing and synthesising research in relation to key areas of criminal justice policy and practice.
- To develop students' abilities to interrogate and undertake criminological research.

6 Distinctive features of the programme

Both the postgraduate and undergraduate programme address the University Vision and Strategy (2020-2025) in respect of having an applied focus which can meet the need of the local area and Wales by producing graduates with the potential to further their studies and move on to become employed in criminal and social justice related contexts. The programmes meet the corporate aims of the University to understand, anticipate and respond to the needs of its customers and stakeholders including businesses, governments and public bodies, students and the wider community. The programmes engage Glyndŵr University in provision of qualifications - the demand for which is well established in the area. In 2019 a Commission on Justice in Wales recommended that justice matters should be devolved to and determined in Wales. As devolution progresses and Wales continues to carve out a distinctive criminal justice and legal space within the England and Wales legal system, there will be greater demand over time for students specifically taught in Wales and cognisant of distinct Welsh criminal justice and social policy related developments and practices.

- The undergraduate and postgraduate programme are designed with flexibility in mind and are intended to appeal across vocational aspirations and provide a broad-based education programme for those interested in pursuing careers in Probation, Youth Justice, Police, Prison Service Substance Misuse Services, Community Rehabilitation, Homelessness services, voluntary agencies, Law, or work with victims, for example, within domestic violence related charities.
- On the undergraduate and postgraduate programme students will acquire an extensive range of generic skills which are widely accepted as providing an excellent preparation for a wide range of careers. For example graduates develop skills in communication, numeracy, teamwork, critical thinking, computing, and independent learning that are highly valued by employers.

BA (Hons) Criminology and Criminal Justice

- Since 2016, pre-join requirements have applied in respect of those wishing to pursue a career in the National Probation Service. Accordingly, within the undergraduate portfolio, options are available to develop knowledge of the foundations of probation practice in the areas of managing risk and working with offenders in community and custodial settings.

- One of the distinctive benefits for students choosing to study the BA (Hons) Criminology and Criminal Justice programme is that an interactive blended approach to teaching is adopted, wherein face to face and on-line elements of the programme are combined with support to underpin a stimulating curriculum that helps develop students' autonomy and self-motivation.
- The programme accommodates a Work Based element at level 5 which could add valuable work experience to a student's CV. The possibilities here relate to a placement in a large or small company engaging in criminal justice related work. These placements can provide invaluable insight into the workings of a range of professions, helping students to decide which career path they wish to choose whilst boosting their CV and developing their professional network.
- The undergraduate programme has attained outstanding results in the National Student Survey. In 2019-2020, for example, Criminology at Glyndŵr University was ranked 1st in the UK for student satisfaction, assessment and feedback and overall satisfaction. It was ranked 3rd in the UK and 1st in Wales for teaching quality.

MA Criminology and Criminal Justice

- The postgraduate programme is designed to offer students and professionals, with or without a first degree in Criminology and Criminal Justice, the opportunity to progress academically and professionally.
- The programme is delivered wholly online with the option of attending three virtual workshops per year. The programme is delivered via the internet using Moodle Virtual learning Environment (VLE), allowing excellent flexibility for times and days of study
- Students will experience the programme and its online inter-active approach, its relevance to the work place and its challenging blend of modules as both stimulating and supportive.
- Regular contact between staff and students is maintained through the personal tutor system and opportunities to engage in real time with module leaders on Microsoft teams.

The Criminology team enjoy excellent links with all criminal justice agencies across north Wales and beyond. Guest lectures to students are regularly delivered by representatives from North Wales Police, Crown Prosecution Service, Probation Service and HMP Berwyn. The team are also research active having completed a number of external evaluations for, inter alia, Welsh Government, Big Lottery, HMPPS. They have published the results of their work in leading criminal justice journals.

9 Learning and teaching strategy

The learning and teaching strategy used in the programmes is grounded in the University's commitment to Universal Design for Learning (UDL), the key principle of which holds that students are motivated to participate in higher education when they are exposed to flexible ways of learning by staff that engage them in different ways using innovative and creative approaches. Accordingly the undergraduate and the postgraduate programme embrace an Active Learning Framework (ALF) which supports accessible, flexible learning that creates a sense of belonging for students. In relation to all online learning, the learning material is designed with reference to the work of the Quality Assurance Agency and its Expectations for Learning and Teaching and its Guidance on Assessing with Integrity in Digital Delivery

On both the postgraduate and undergraduate programme there is a focus on future employability in the criminal justice system. Importance is attached to students developing Key Skills for Employability and the University's Strategy for Supporting Student Learning and Achievement (SSSLA). That strategy is directly aligned to the University's Vision and Strategy, focussing upon the domain 'Teaching that inspires', where learning is informed by and is relevant to the applied world of work, and students are able to leave the University as skilled, knowledgeable and entrepreneurial citizens able to meet the challenges of the 21st century.

Cognisant of the standards laid down in the University's 'Academic Quality Handbook', every module at postgraduate and undergraduate level is associated with a module handbook, providing full details of the aims and learning outcomes relevant to the module and how teaching will be delivered. The module handbook also provides information on the assessment vehicle, hand in dates, tutor support arrangements and a reading list.

BA (Hons) Criminology and Criminal Justice

Students studying the BA (Hons) Criminology and Criminal Justice at Glyndŵr University have access to multiple learning opportunities on every module, including face to face or online classes (with core and guest lecturers), seminars, access to recorded lectures, lecture notes and handouts; and directions to relevant essential and additional reading. Because class sizes are typically small (around 40 students or fewer) an interactive approach to learning can be managed and staff typically engage student with key issue by drawing on case studies and their practice experiences in the criminal justice field. Lectures are organised around lecture inputs, quizzes, recorded video content, larger and small group discussions and debates.

MA Criminology and Criminal Justice

The postgraduate programme is taught primarily online through recorded content that replicates synchronous learning experiences. Students are thereafter involved in a range of online activities, quizzes, debates and discussions. Face to Face or video mediated appointments can be made with tutoring staff to discuss module content and assignments.

On both programmes, outside the classroom, students are encouraged to join the University's 'criminology society' and 'policing society'. Such societies take a lead role in organising educational visits (to places of legal interest) and social events (quizzes, shows etc.) for students enrolled on particular courses. Students are also encouraged to join the departmental Twitter and Facebook accounts run by one of the criminal justice staff that seeks to keep students up to date with criminal justice developments. The Facebook page "Criminology and Criminal Justice@Glyndŵr" is followed by over 800 students and alumni and provides up to date information to students on matters of criminological and legal concern. It connects current students not only with each other but to students from the past many of whom, are in the present, criminal justice professionals.

Accordingly through the education blend involving face to face and online learning and a focus on online and real work staff 'presence' (social, cognitive and teaching presence), and student interaction in the classroom and beyond, the programme team work with students to create a community of enquiry and a sense of continuous belonging to a distinctive degree programme.

10 The Wrexham Glyndŵr Graduate

At Glyndŵr University we aim to help students develop and enhance key employability skills and capabilities during their study. There are three key areas with different attributes, attitudes and skillsets and the aim is to help students have the opportunity to enhance and develop skills such as resilience, adaptability, confidence, team working, emotional intelligence and communication, creativity and acting ethically and sustainably. Programmes are designed to enable students to develop and enhance these skills via module content, module learning outcomes and assessment opportunities. Each module will help provide different opportunities for developing and enhancing these capabilities.

The Careers team are available to provide information, advice and guidance and access to resources for potential students, current students and graduates. WGUConnect provides students with access to an online directory of vacancies.

The Careers team can support students with employability and interview skills such as use of the STAR (Situation, Task, Action, Result) technique that many recruiters use to gather relevant information about a specific capability that the job requires.

The proposed programmes contribute to the delivery of the University's Employability Strategy priority actions:

- By preparing students for further higher study through developing their research capabilities (priority action 6).
- By enabling students to articulate their employability by relating module activities and assessment tasks to sought after competences and proficiencies in employment contexts utilising sector specific language (priority action 7).

The undergraduate curriculum and accompanying pedagogy support the development (and recognition) of Glyndŵr Graduate Attributes and prepares a 'Glyndŵr Graduate' to achieve their career aspirations and professional potential. For example, during the programme emphasis is placed on enhancing four key attributes to develop students who are:

- Creative (able to invent and develop original ideas to produce new and interesting outcomes): This will be via the opportunity to develop original ideas and contribute to disciplinary knowledge through their fully supported self-led research project; and the ability to approach assignments in a creative way (e.g. adopting theoretical lenses).
- Engaged (able to take responsibility for outcomes and embrace opportunities to participate and develop): This will be via immersion in current, innovative and advanced ideas in the field; to mix with and be exposed to teaching inputs from staff representing a range of disciplines across the university and beyond- justice, policing, law; and initiate and/or engage in classroom and online debates.
- Enterprising (able to show initiative; resourcefulness and determination): This will be via opportunities to approach assessments in a variety of ways and to focus responses on areas of particular interest to the student.
- Ethical (able to adopt a global perspective and commit to respecting diversity and acting in a principled way with integrity): Criminal justice is inextricably linked to power and oppression and how people interact and respect diversity and difference these core themes feature in inputs through the justice portfolio. Staff model and students are expected to adopt inclusive practices in the classroom and in written texts e.g. lectures /assignment.

Whether undertaking the postgraduate or undergraduate programme, students will also be encouraged to develop five key attitudes:

- Adaptability (the ability to embrace change and innovate): Criminal justice is a dynamic area of policy and practice. Students will be updated and informed of new developments and will need to embrace change and reflect awareness of it in their assignments.
- Confidence (self-assurance arising from an appreciation of own abilities): Confidence will be developed via the process of providing constructive formative and summative classroom/online and assessment based feedback and opportunities to develop key skills during classroom and assessment activities e.g. presentation/written skills.
- Commitment (the ability to decisively engage with activities and work towards goals): In every module the need will arise to engage with in-class (discussion) and after-class activities (online searches; library visits) in order to achieve goals.
- Curiosity (the desire to expand knowledge and horizons, to understand the world more fully): Many students are naturally curious about crime and staff will refer to real world cases and practice experiences to develop curiosity about offending behaviour.
- Resilience (the ability to manage setbacks and recover from difficulties and develop greater ability to manage setbacks and recover from difficulties): Each module will be completed in the face of competing non-academic and academic demands and real world challenges. Staff will engage with students in identifying and planning for overcoming such difficulties to build resilience for the future.

Undergraduate students and postgraduate students will also be provided with opportunities to develop six practical skillsets:

- Communication skills (written and persuasive skills: These skills are strengthened throughout the programme as part of moderated online and/or classroom discussions and feedback is provided in personal tutorials and assignment feedback.
- Critical thinking skills (the ability to hold evidence to rigorous standards, to reason carefully and interrogate evidence/claims): This skill is developed throughout the programme with particular emphasis on critical thinking in relation to the experiences of minority groups and during the undergraduate research project module at level 6.
- Emotional intelligence (the ability to identify, understanding and manage (self/others) emotions): Criminal justice is an emotive business and students will be encouraged towards thoughtful and considered approaches to crime and victimisation
- Organisation skills (the skill of being effective/efficient in planning, time-management and appropriately prioritising competing demands): These skills are taught at level 4 and are revisited in assignment feedback and personal tutorials sessions before being applied at level 6 to complete the undergraduate research project module
- Digital fluency: the opportunity to assess and reflect upon digital skill levels arises on entry to the programme, with enhancements supported through introduction the VLE and to a variety of software as the programme progresses.
- Leadership and Team Working Skills: these are promoted in classroom or online discussions and especially in modules where presentations are required where students will have opportunities to lead and or to work together to meet required standards.

11 Work based/placement learning statement

Work based learning will be facilitated through a specific work based learning module at level 5. The criminal justice work based module has been delivered successfully as part of the BA (Hons) Criminology and Criminal Justice programme for the last four years, and provides the framework and support for student to identify, engage and submit assessments which build on experiences in the workplace, wherein students apply theory to practice to produce a reflective portfolio of their work based learning. The module begins with the student finding the placement. A meeting between the tutor/student and placement provider is then convened and the opportunities available to meet the module learning outcomes are agreed. A formal contract is signed with the expectation the student will complete 50 hours of observational/practical activities. Task completion is recorded by the placement provider. The module is then assessed by way of a portfolio.

12 Welsh medium provision

The programmes will be delivered through the medium of English. Students are entitled to submit assessments in the medium of Welsh.

13 Assessment strategy

Assessment is carried out in accordance with Glyndŵr University's Regulations for Initial Modular Undergraduate Degrees, Diplomas, Certificates, and Foundation Degrees. The approach adopted is informed by guidance published by the QAA to ensure integrity in distance teaching, learning and assessment practices QAA (2020)<sup>1</sup>

Opportunities for formative assessments will feature regularly in order that students can gauge their own benchmarks and plot their own progress. These will include short pieces of writing and on-line exercises. Levels five and six will also include formative assessments but these will be less frequent and more self-directed i.e. students will be expected to be active in identifying their own strengths and limitations.

The range of summative assessments has been designed to encompass rigorous academic requirements and also to accommodate individual differences in preferred learning style. Consequently there is a mix of essays, exams, on-line multiple-choice tests, individual and group presentations and role plays.

Assignments are set in advance and provided to students in module handbooks and marked and returned by module (using the online system Turnitin) with students being given in depth electronic and oral feedback on all assessments within an appropriate timescale determined by University regulations (within 3 weeks). Assessment criteria are published in the student programme handbook issued at the beginning of the academic year, and are drawn from published good practice guidelines.

In order to maintain an approach where students can develop their own interests and refer to their own experiences many assignment questions can be answered from different perspectives. However the design of the assessment task (outlined in further detail in the module specification) will ensure that the learning outcomes will be met, therefore within a cohort of students there may be several approaches to a single question. Each level entails a similar amount of work from students in terms of the number and lengths of assessment tasks, but the content will become increasingly demanding to reflect the developing complexity of material at each stage. The assessment strategy focusses on assessing achievement in meeting the academic learning outcomes of the programme but with a view, to preparing students for the workplace.

Derogations

None

Non Credit Bearing assessment

None

Borderline Classifications (Undergraduate programmes)

In considering borderline cases the Assessment Board shall raise the classification to the next level if all of the following criteria are met:

- At least 50% of the credits at level 6 fall within the higher classification.
- All level 6 modules must have been passed at the first attempt.

The mark achieved for the Research Project module is within the higher classification.

Ordinary Degrees

No specific modules required to achieve this

Restrictions for trailing modules (Taught Masters)

Advanced Research methods

15 Accreditation

N/A

16 Quality Management

All provision is expected to comply with the University processes for quality assurance, the QAA Quality Code and any specific PSRB requirements to ensure the quality of the learning and teaching on the programme. The University uses the following mechanisms to help evaluate, enhance and review programmes delivery;

Student Evaluation of Module forms
Student Voice Forum
Individual student feedback
Student representatives
Annual Monitoring reports
Periodic review and re-validation process
External Examiner reports
PSRB requirements and accreditation activities
National Student Survey (NSS)

17 Support for Students

The University has a range of departments that offer support for students such as:

- Library & IT Resources
- Inclusion Services
- Careers Service
- Chaplaincy
- Counselling & Wellbeing
- Student Funding and Welfare
- Student Administration

Please access the Glyndŵr website at www.glyndwr.ac.uk to find out more about the Departments

Glyndŵr Student Union offers support for students, please access their website at to find out more. <https://www.wrexhamglyndwrsu.org.uk/>

All students at Wrexham Glyndŵr University are allocated a Personal Tutor whose main responsibility is to act as the first point of contact for their personal students and to provide pastoral and academic support throughout their studies at the University.

Because criminology has been delivered at the University at both postgraduate and undergraduate levels for many years, library provision for criminology students at Wrexham Glyndŵr University is well developed. Many resources, such as eBooks and eJournals are available to access off campus via Resource Finder which is accessible through the University website.

Faculty support for students

Students gain access to a wider variety of resources for learning when undertaking this programme. These include:

- Peer-reviewed literature.
- The virtual learning environment (VLE) and access to computer stations and IT software.
- Interactive discussion with lecturers on VLE.
- Personal tutor.
- Individual learning support through student support services and personal tutoring.
- Individual learning plans.
- E books, journals, books (Library).
- Student handbook (information about appeals, complaints, assessment outline, student support, placements, etc.).

18 Equality and Diversity

Glyndŵr University is committed to providing access to all students and promotes equal opportunities in compliance with the Equality Act 2010 legislation. This programme complies fully with the University's Equality and Diversity Policy <https://www.Glyndŵr.ac.uk/en/AboutGlyndŵrUniversity/EqualityandDiversity/> ensuring that everyone who has the potential to achieve in higher education is given the chance to do so.

All relevant programme literature will highlight and reflect the importance ascribed by the University to tackling unfair discrimination. All those concerned with admissions and retention on the programme will be made aware of the potential needs of students and of strategies available to provide for these needs.

The programme curriculum and philosophy will establish and develop the basis for an anti-discriminatory practice by ensuring that all students develop an awareness of the inter-relationship between individual and structural oppression; understand and counteract the impact of stigma and discrimination and recognise the need for and seek to promote policies and practices which are non-discriminatory and anti-oppressive. All participants in the programme will be made aware that any form of discriminatory behaviour will not be accepted or condoned by the programme providers.

Equality of opportunity also applies to student life at Wrexham Glyndŵr University, as well as the curriculum and course philosophy. Students will be treated fairly and with respect at all times. Racial, sexual or other forms of discrimination or harassment will not be tolerated.

Students who feel that they are being discriminated against should raise the issue with their personal tutor or any member of the staff team. Alternatively, the Students' Union, student counsellors or one of the programme student representatives may be called upon for advice or support. No student should feel that they have to tolerate unfair or oppressive treatment.

The programme has been designed to be accessible and inclusive, creating opportunities for students with disabilities, additional learning requirements and those who have the need to work and/or have caring responsibilities, the opportunity to succeed. Technology is used to enhance the student experience and is used innovatively to ensure equality of access to learning opportunities. Other examples of how diversity is addressed in practice include:

- A variety of assessment methods staggered throughout the year to accommodate those with additional learning needs
- Most lectures are audio and video recorded, then made available online
- Personal Tutorial support
- Support through Learning Plans where required
- Ensuring that face to face lectures are provided in full as online resources to meet the needs of those who may not be able to attend all/a particular face to face session.
- The use of the VLE to provide additional support and resources to learners to access at times to suit their needs.
- Case studies are varied to reflect the diverse communities of Wales.
